

Environmental Policy Statement

We at The NEC Group host millions of visitors every year. As such, there is a significant impact upon the environment from our activities and those of our customers, particularly from energy usage and waste generation.

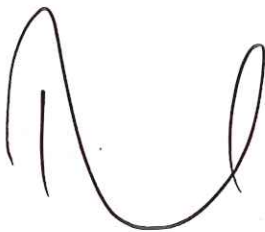

We are committed to responsibly managing the environmental impact of our activities and to the reduction of that impact over time.

We recognise our obligations to comply with environmental legislation and regulation and are committed to creating policies, processes and a positive, environmentally aware culture to help us meet those obligations.

We set long-term targets for the reduction of the environmental impact of our operations. We are committed to achieving those targets and have a framework in place that helps us to do so. In particular:

- We have measures in place that enable us to monitor the most significant areas of environmental impact of our operations.
- We identify key initiatives that enable us to reduce our environmental impact, and which will keep us on track to achieve our long-term targets.
- We train key individuals to be more aware of the nature of our environmental impact and to be more equipped to address that impact and also to comply with legislation and regulation.

We work in a continually changing environment and this policy statement will be reviewed annually to ensure that it remains appropriate.
